After reviewing the device, we are unfortunately unable to pull the latitude and longitude for this one.

I will be conducting a full network audit today and will report back on my findings in the coming days. In the meantime, if any other devices are found to have been tampered with, please continue to send them to Brian and me.

I'll attach the report.. We had another GSD pulled down. The device was stolen, and we recovered the solar panel. I went to the scene, and it appears they are able to grab the pole and pull with enough people/force to pry it from the non-cemented ground. This is the second time this same location has been vandalized. Last time they only pulled it down; they did not steal the GSD.

There is an LPR approx. 10 meters from the GSD. I looked at it as well and noticed the same type of vandalism was attempted, but they couldn't pull it down.
