Hi there,

We've updated the Transparency Portal to give agencies more direct control over how they manage and share information publicly. Your team can now independently customize and update your portal without relying on Flock support.

Here's what's new:

- Upload your own agency photo or logo
- Cleaner public-facing data organization
- More flexible ways to categorize and present information
- Light and dark mode support
- Ability to preview changes before publishing
- Ability to unpublish if ever necessary

These updates are designed to make transparency easier to manage proactively and help agencies keep information clear, current, and accessible for the public. It's part of Flock's broader commitment to building tools that support accountability, local control, and public trust.

To access your transparency portal, navigate to the Transparency Portal tab in your Admin Controls here. If you'd like support updating your content, more information can be found in Flock Academy here, or your Customer Success Manager is always available to help.
